The Doctor and the gang take on pirates and sea monsters in a swashbuckling new adventure

NEW SCI-FI

Doctor Who

Easter Sunday, 7.10pm, BBC1

From Autons and Sontarans to Daleks and Zygons, the classic era of Doctor Who gave rise to many memorable monsters that have since been revived to great effect in the rebooted series.

Now it's the turn of the Sea Devils to return to the 'Whoniverse', after an absence of almost 40 years, in Easter Sunday's new one-off adventure Legend of the Sea Devils.

Last appearing in 1984 (see panel, right), the Sea Devils are amphibious creatures who occupied the Earth before humans existed. This week, we see them causing chaos on the high seas in 19th-century China, where the Doctor (Jodie Whittaker), Yaz (Mandip Gill) and Dan (John Bishop) have landed during a slightly botched attempt to solve the mystery of the treasure of the ship Flor de la Mar.

In addition to the Doctor's sub-aquatic enemies, the episode also sees the TARDIS team coming up against a band of pirates – led by the real-life historical figure of Madam Ching (Crystal Yu).

Here, Whittaker, 39, and Bishop, 55, reveal what's in store in this all-action adventure…

What can viewers expect from Legend of the Sea Devils?

Whittaker We're a few centuries off where the Doctor was aiming for, and the gang stumble across a period in history that is a first for the Doctor Who universe. The TARDIS knows that it's going to China, so Yaz and the Doctor have prepared appropriately, but Dan gets a bit of a bum steer and his costume is all wrong!

Bishop It starts out as a little joke between Yaz and Dan, then events take over and he never gets the chance to change his clothes.

Jodie, how did you find playing opposite the Sea Devils, with Craige Els playing their chief?

Whittaker I was really pleased to be working with the Sea Devils. It's interesting to see Craige's interpretation, because he's playing a very different kind of Sea Devil than we've seen before. The costume, and the restrictions of the mask, meant that Craige's lines were recorded – it must have been so challenging, but he brought an incredible characterisation.

What can you tell us about Madam Ching?

Whittaker Madam Ching is such a great character and Crystal was absolutely brilliant. She was never tired – she was running around, jumping, swinging off things, fighting, memorising lots of lines and at no point did she ever stop smiling. She's a wonderful person to have on set.

Bishop Crystal was familiar with Cardiff because she has been in Casualty, which is filmed here, too. She said when she was on the Casualty set, she used to think about what it was like in the Doctor Who studio on the other side of the wall.

The set looks very impressive. What was it like to work on?

Whittaker It was amazing. The art department worked night and day to create a really extraordinary set, and I think it's the biggest one that we've worked on. It had so many different levels, it was really epic.

Bishop I just couldn't believe it – it was a full ship, built in the studio next door to the TARDIS. The workmanship and detail in it absolutely floored me.

Yaz has seemed to develop feelings for the Doctor. How has that affected things?

Bishop I think it was probably a surprise to both the Doctor and Yaz that it was so obvious to Dan that there were feelings between them. As a character, Dan is probably not the most obvious person to be the matchmaker, but the bond between them is so clear. As he said to Yaz in the New Year's special, sometimes if you've got feelings for somebody, you just have to act on them because otherwise it will be too late.

We hear you get to do some sword-fighting in this episode…

Whittaker I was really nervous, as I hadn't done it since drama school. But when we ended up rehearsing it, it was just like choreographing a dance, and I really enjoyed it.

Bishop I was so desperate to do a few somersaults and swing on ropes – I really wanted to be a proper pirate! But I would have killed myself at some point. I was like a kid on set, climbing up ropes – the stunt coordinator kept saying, 'Get off!'

PLAYING THE DEVIL

The first appearance of the Sea Devils in Doctor Who was in 1972, when they were introduced as an amphibious sub-species of the Silurians. They returned in 1984's Warriors of the Deep, fighting alongside the Silurians in a Cold War allegory where Peter Davison's Doctor had to avert a nuclear apocalypse.

Showrunner Chris Chibnall was keen not to deviate too far from the Devils' established look, created in the 1970s by designer John Friedlander.

'We felt we could fit that original, brilliant design into our story, but have it updated by Robert Allsopp and Ray Holman, our costume and monster designers,' says Chibnall. 'We could have a bit of fun, and pirate them up a bit.'

THREE MEN IN A BOAT

Mark Gatiss joins old pals Steve Pemberton and Reece Shearsmith for a long-awaited reunion as Inside No. 9 returns

NEW COMEDY DRAMA
Inside No. 9
Wed, 10pm, BBC2 (times vary)

Reece Shearsmith and Steve Pemberton have welcomed a host of big stars into the world of Inside No. 9 over the years, but never managed to find a role for their old pal Mark Gatiss – until now.

The trio, who starred in cult BBC2 comedy The League of Gentlemen together, are reunited on-screen once more in Merrily, Merrily, the first episode of the new season of the BAFTA-winning black comedy.

Also starring Motherland's Diane Morgan, the tale takes place at a secluded boating lake, where three old friends share a long-awaited reunion. But as they catch up, things take an unexpected turn…

Here, Shearsmith and Pemberton tell us more about a get-together that's been years in the making…

How did the idea for Merrily, Merrily come about?

Shearsmith Initially we thought, 'Let's do an episode set on a pedalo on a lake' – we thought it was a funny idea. If you're on a boat and something happens, then you're stuck with those people, aren't you? So then we thought, who are these people and why are they meeting? It sort of became about friendship and how people change and how some people don't change at all. It's also the first time we've done an Inside No. 9 episode that's filmed outdoors.

When did you decide to ask Mark Gatiss to appear?

Pemberton We actually wrote the episode ages ago and it wasn't for Mark in particular. But when we looked at it again we saw it with fresh eyes and thought it was the perfect opportunity to get him in.

Shearsmith Mark's been asking to be in the show from the first episode! It was beginning to feel like a bit of a thing that he hadn't been in it for six series. So, finally, we relented. We also thought it would actually be really good casting because it's sort of our lives. There are a lot of things in this episode that were true to our friendship from years ago.

Guest star Diane Morgan with Pemberton

When did you all originally meet?

Pemberton We all met at Bretton Hall College of Education [in West Riding, Yorkshire] nearly 30 years ago. When we were filming, we were just cast out on that lake for hours, talking about our own experiences of those times.

You also had some company…

Pemberton We did feel sorry for Diane Morgan, as the three of us have our own language. But Diane was an honorary member of our team during the shoot and we had an absolute ball working with her.

What were the challenges of filming the episode?

Pemberton We filmed it at a flooded quarry near Dorking, so

WORDS: SEAN MARLAND. PHOTOS: BBC, SKY

Mark Gatiss (centre) with old colleagues Steve Pemberton and Reece Shearsmith

it was very deep in places. We wanted it to be quite wild, somewhere you could imagine getting lost and stranded, but we hadn't really thought about the practicalities. We had our pedalo, plus the camera crew and the director in another boat and the sound recordist in another one. But as we'd line up for a shot we'd slowly start to drift apart and constantly have to be paddling back into shot. We also sprung a leak at one point and our pedalo started to sink, which was a bit unnerving.

The show finally won a BAFTA for Best Scripted Comedy last year.

Was that a special moment?

Shearsmith It really was. We had got to the point where we'd been on so long, we were just like Countryfile, rolling on and no one really thinking about us any more. It was a genuine shock and it was lovely to get the acknowledgement because we thought our moment had come and gone.

LADY OF THE LAKE

A murdered woman comes back to life determined to find her killer

NEW DRAMA

The Rising

Fri, 9pm, Sky Max & Sky Showcase (box set, Sky Box Sets/NOW)

Sky Max puts a fresh twist on the murder-mystery genre with a supernatural thriller about a young woman who returns from the dead to track down her own killer.

Set in the Lake District, eight-part drama The Rising begins when a young woman, Neve Kelly (Clara Rugaard), emerges from a lake and returns to her home.

However, Neve is stunned to discover that her loved ones can neither see nor hear her. As Neve watches on, concerned locals begin an urgent search of the area – and it dawns on Neve that she's dead.

Afraid and confused, she realises that she's been murdered and vows to stop at nothing in the hunt to find her killer.

MYSTERY

As locals search for Neve, the hunt focuses on the lake where she was enjoying a party with her boyfriend, Joseph (Solly McLeod), and other pals when she disappeared. Sure enough, her family discover Neve's lifeless body floating in the water the next morning.

It's a devastating moment, but things take a shocking turn for her estranged, hard-drinking father, Tom (Matthew McNulty), when he sees his daughter walking towards him calling his name.

'Tom really struggles with being able to see Neve when the rest of the family can't,' says McNulty. 'It's a tragedy that he only gets to know his daughter after she's died.'

As Neve investigates her own murder, her paranormal powers allow her to go to places where the police can't. And it's not long before she uncovers deeply buried secrets.

'We've seen young female victims so many times on TV, and I love the way this story subverts that genre,' says Kelly. 'Neve gets to investigate her own murder, which empowers a character who would usually be the victim.'

Ant and Dec reveal why they're thrilled to be back on Britain's Got Talent...

NEW ENTERTAINMENT
Britain's Got Talent
Sat, 8pm, & Easter Sun, 7.35pm, ITV

After sadly being postponed last spring due to the COVID-19 pandemic, much-loved ITV show Britain's Got Talent makes a welcome return to our screens this week.

The stage is set as, once again, a whole host of weird, wonderful and super-talented acts audition at the London Palladium in front of judges Simon Cowell, Amanda Holden, Alesha Dixon and David Walliams for the chance to perform at this year's Royal Variety Performance and win a £250,000 cash prize.

According to hosts Ant and Dec, the show is bigger and better than ever.

'There was a real renewed excitement when we all got back together again and being at the London Palladium with an actual audience was great,' says Dec.

Here, they reveal what's in store…

This is BGT's 15th series. Did being away for a year have any impact on the talent that auditioned?

Dec We had some acts who'd only met in the last two years and had rehearsed over Zoom. It was very moving that they'd used a horrible time to create something positive. This one feels like a really special series. As always with BGT, we never know whether the next act to audition is going to be bonkers or a global superstar.

What's the dynamic like between the judges this time?

Ant This is the 10th year that this group of judges has been together. I couldn't imagine BGT having any other judges now and they are on great form again. David's been winding Simon up a treat, and we ribbed Simon about falling off his bike. A lot.

There's a new element this year, Golden Moments...

Dec The Golden Moments sees people, who probably wouldn't apply for the show themselves, being nominated by friends or family.

Ant We had one guy, who was in the audience when his two daughters walked on stage and surprised him. He rehearsed and, later, came out on stage and sang a song about them. It was really touching.

Do you and the judges still have a Golden Buzzer act each?

Dec Yes, we still have those. We felt a bit of pressure this year because our Golden Buzzer act, comedy pianist Jon Courtenay, won the last series!

Ant Our Golden Buzzer act this time is a guy who's very different to what we've had before, but his talent is exceptional. The talent was so strong this year, we had two Golden Buzzers on the first day of auditions.

Are there any really unusual acts?

Dec Fifteen series in and we've never had the Invisible Man audition, so that was a first. How will it work on TV? You'll have to wait and see…

What act from the past 14 series do you think epitomises BGT?

Dec When you say, 'Britain's Got Talent,' the act that stands out for me would be dance troupe Diversity. They're the ultimate BGT winners.

Ant I'd say our first winner, Paul Potts. At the auditions that day, Dec and I thought: 'It doesn't look like there are any potential winners there – let's go and have lunch.' Suddenly, we can hear Nessun dorma coming through the dressing-room speakers. We raced to the stage to chat to Paul and luckily we caught him. We now interview everybody – we wouldn't want to miss the winner.

Screen romance

Steve Coogan and Sarah Solemani are chalk-and-cheese film-makers who fall in love

NEW COMEDY DRAMA
Chivalry
Thursday, 10pm & 10.30pm, C4 (box set, All 4)

Steve Coogan and Sarah Solemani play two very different film-makers in new C4 comedy drama Chivalry, which they co-wrote together.

The six-parter, which starts with a double bill, features Coogan as ladies' man Cameron O'Neill, an out-of-touch Hollywood producer who is making a sexually controversial movie called A Little Death.

But with the #MeToo movement gathering force, shrewd studio executive Jean Shrill (Wanda Sykes) decides the film needs a revamp and hires feminist film-maker Bobby Sohrabi (Solemani) to take over as director.

Not surprisingly, Cameron and Bobby are soon butting heads. But despite their very different outlooks on life, they find themselves attracted to each other…

'Steve and I were filming the movie Greed when #MeToo began. We started arguing and making each other furious – but also laughing,' says Solemani, who's starred in Him & Her and No Offence.

'We thought, what if we put two opposing characters together and romance stems from that?'

In the opening episode, Cameron is dumped by his twentysomething girlfriend, and finds himself on the back foot when Bobby rebuffs his charms, challenges his behaviour, and hires an intimacy coach to reshoot the film's sex scenes.

Sienna Miller as Lark

However, Bobby's own beliefs are tested when the unlikely romance develops, confusing the film-maker who has a partner and a child back home.

'In the beginning, Cameron's pretty unreconstructed. But he's not a villain and Bobby's not an angel,' says Coogan. 'Your sympathies shift. Cameron starts to awaken, partly through falling in love with Bobby, while Bobby's principles bump into her feelings. To me, that conflict is funny, dramatic and truthful.'

The starry cast includes Sienna Miller as the film's leading actress, Lark; Ghosts star Lolly Adefope as Cameron's ambitious new PA, Ama; and Aisling Bea as Tatiana, the film's intimacy coach. Meanwhile, there are cameos from Hollywood stars Paul Rudd, John C Reilly, Peter Mullan and Amy Landecker.

'The idea with the cameos was basically, who did we know who would do it for nothing?' jokes Coogan. 'I love this show. It's not cynical. It's acerbic at times, but ultimately it's about love.'

A woman constantly relives her life in a new drama

NEW DRAMA

Life After Life

Tuesday, 9pm, BBC2 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

How would it feel to come back and live your life again? That's the premise of BBC2's period drama Life After Life, based on Kate Atkinson's 2013 novel.

The four-part series follows Ursula Todd, who is born in 1910 and dies just seconds later as her umbilical cord is stuck round her neck. But the next time she is born, the doctor arrives in time and she lives…

Over the duration of her childhood with parents Hugh and Sylvie (James McArdle and Sian Clifford) and her siblings, Ursula dies on several more occasions from a range of causes, including drowning and the Spanish flu.

But each time, she is born again, and her life then shifts so that she survives until the Grim Reaper catches up with her once more.

'We follow Ursula from the moment she's born and she goes through life multiple times,' explains The Power of the Dog's Thomasin McKenzie, who plays her from age 16. 'We see how each of her lives changes depending on events and decisions she makes.'

As time moves on, Ursula gets the chance to change things when she encounters Hitler, and she also faces personal challenges within her marriage and her family.

'The idea of reincarnation is interesting. It opens up the possibility of reliving or fixing past mistakes,' says McKenzie. 'In real life, I'm constantly cringing at things I've done and wish I hadn't!'

NEW DRAMA

The Thief, His Wife and the Canoe

Easter Sunday-Wednesday, 9pm, ITV

The story of John Darwin, the former teacher from Hartlepool who faked his own death to claim on his life insurance, is truly stranger than fiction.

Now his outlandish and ill-fated plan is being retold in a four-part ITV drama, starring Eddie Marsan as John and Monica Dolan as his wife, Anne.

FRAGILE EGO

Up to his ears in debt, 51-year-old John hatched a plan to disappear by apparently drowning while canoeing in the North Sea near his home in Seaton Carew in March 2002.

'John didn't really have a very long-term plan,' explains Marsan. 'He had a very fragile ego, and so the thought of bankruptcy was absolute torture to him.'

John was declared dead after a search and a police investigation, but was in fact living in a bedsit in the house next door to the family home, which he also owned, coming and going between the properties via an internal door.

Meanwhile, Anne played the part of the grieving widow, and received large payouts from her husband's insurance and pension. Worst of all, she hid the truth about their father's disappearance from her two sons Mark and Anthony (played by Mark Stanley and Dominic Applewhite).

'It's the lies that are the infamous thing,' says Dolan. 'People will be watching this and asking: "Is she sorry? Should she be forgiven?"'

It looked like John had got away with it, and the couple started a new life in Panama, before John turned himself in to the British police in 2007, claiming to have amnesia. Both were subsequently convicted of fraud.

Scripted by Unforgotten creator Chris Lang, the drama is told from the point of view of Anne, who is portrayed as a reluctant participant in John's scheme.

'John was a fantasist,' says Marsan. 'And Anne was the victim of a fantasist.'

• The documentary The Thief, His Wife and the Canoe: The Real Story (Thu, 9pm, ITV) looks at the real-life case of the Darwins.

Lessons in love

Boy meets boy in a new romantic drama based on a comic-book series

NETFLIX Heartstopper

NEW Available: Fri 22 Apr Genre: Drama Season: 1 Episodes: 8

When a new school initiative mixes students from different years in the same form groups, shy Charlie Spring (Joe Locke) finds himself sitting next to star rugby player Nick Nelson (Kit Connor) – but neither boy is prepared for what lies ahead.

Adapted by Alice Oseman from her hugely popular comic-book series, Heartstopper explores the unlikely friendship that develops – and as Charlie and Nick grow closer, Nick starts to wonder if his feelings for Charlie are more than just platonic.

'Their relationship hits them both by surprise – especially Nick,' says Connor. 'Originally it is just a friendship, but Nick starts to realise that it's maybe something more.'

'Charlie already has a crush on Nick when he first sets eyes on him,' adds Locke. 'But I think to Charlie, it's just another "pining after a straight boy" thing. He doesn't see it as a realistic crush which I think stems from his low self-esteem.'

Charlie's friends Elle (Yasmin Finney) and Tao (William Gao)

Both Locke and Connor read Oseman's comics while they were auditioning, and found they also helped during filming.

'In some scenes, especially the intimacy scenes between me and Joe, we weren't sure where to put our hands, or how to stand,' says Connor. 'But it was like having a really detailed and beautiful storyboard – it gave us a guideline.'

'The director, Euros Lyn, had an iPad with the script on one side and the corresponding comic strip on the other side, so we could reference it all the time,' says Locke. 'That was really great.'

MODERN APPROACH

Social media plays a key role in the series, as the boys communicate primarily via direct messages on Instagram. This put the actors in the slightly odd position of acting out a love story when their main 'acting' partner in a scene was often a phone.

'It's a very realistic portrayal of how life is now – so much of it is seen through a screen,' says Connor. 'But it was a very strange experience – you'd be filming for maybe five minutes and Euros would be shouting, "Charlie's telling you he loves you", and I had to react to that!'

While Charlie and Nick inevitably face challenges in their relationship, it was important to the show's creators that their story should be an uplifting one.

'It's like a realistic story told in an optimistic way,' says Locke. 'There's increasing queer representation on TV, but not so much that's aimed at younger teenagers, in a show that is just a happy story. It's important to show the beauty of being queer and all the lovely things that come along with that.'

Bob Odenkirk bows out as Saul Goodman

It's the end of the road for Bob Odenkirk's lawyer

NETFLIX Better Call Saul

NEW Available: Tuesday 19 April
Genre: Drama Season: 6 (part A)
Episodes: 7 (first two eps from 19 Apr, then weekly)

The final season of Breaking Bad prequel Better Call Saul lands on Netflix this week – but lead actor Bob Odenkirk, who plays small-time attorney Jimmy McGill, almost never got the chance to complete filming. In July, the 59-year-old actor suffered a heart attack while making the series, and admits he was lucky to survive.

'I don't remember any of it, but I guess I turned grey and stopped breathing. I would have been dead if someone hadn't been there to perform CPR, and if there wasn't a defibrillator on set,' he reveals.

Co-star Rhea Seehorn

EMERGENCY

Co-stars Patrick Fabian and Rhea Seehorn were with Odenkirk during the incident, and held his hand while medical help was summoned. After emergency surgery to have stents fitted, he was able to return to the set last September.

'I'm doing great,' he reveals. 'I got such love from people around the world, and for the rest of my life I will be thinking about the warmth that was sent my way.'

The final season is split into two parts, with seven episodes in the first batch, and the final six episodes airing from July onwards, completing the backstory of how Jimmy transforms into the Saul Goodman character we know and love from Breaking Bad.

'I can't wait for people to see the final season – so much happens in it,' says Odenkirk. 'It's a killer ending. One of the cool things about the final season is that the two shows have never been better connected.'

Saul was first introduced in season two of Breaking Bad as Walter White's (Bryan Cranston) unscrupulous lawyer, and the character was such a hit that producers decided to expand the role in a spin-off.

'I have been playing this guy for almost 15 years,' says Odenkirk. 'Saying goodbye to the character has given me a real feeling of completion.'

One of the things that Odenkirk will miss most about the show is the lousy Suzuki Esteem driven by his character – until it ended up in a ravine.

'I really, truly enjoyed driving that little hunk of metal,' smiles Odenkirk. 'I've told my son that I'm going to get him one of those for his first car, and he thinks that's pretty cool.'

The Miracle Panda

Wednesday, 8pm, Smithsonian

When panda cub Xiao Qi Ji arrived at Washington DC's Smithsonian Zoo in August 2020, he made headlines across the globe. Not only was he born to ageing parents with the help of artificial insemination, but he also provided a feel-good story in the middle of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Now, a new Smithsonian documentary, The Miracle Panda, narrated by Lucy Liu, follows the zoo's dedicated team as the cub marks his first birthday.

'Xiao Qi Ji is really special to us,' explains keeper Laurie Thompson. 'His mum is 22 years old and generally pandas stop giving birth around the age of 20, so I don't think any of us thought that artificial insemination would actually work.'

'There was a mixture of terror and excitement during the birth because we were worried that something was going to go wrong,' adds Thompson's fellow keeper, Marty Dearie.

'Then when the cub hit the ground, my excitement kicked in – although it wasn't until after about a month that I was finally able to

With only around 1,800 pandas left in the wild, Xiao Qi Ji's birth gives scientists at the Smithsonian Zoo a chance to study the species up close. However, all captive pandas around the world belong to China and when cubs born overseas reach adulthood, they're sent home.

TEAMWORK

So when Xiao Qi Ji turns three, he'll go to China to join an ongoing breeding programme. Hopefully, he will help sire a generation of cubs who will be released back into the wild in a huge, newly restored national park.

'I've never seen anything like the will to make this happen. It's really impressive,' says Smithsonian conservation biologist Mel Songer, who has been working with her Chinese counterparts to plant vast corridors of bamboo within the national park.

'It's so important to China, but also the world. It shows that when we're working together and we have a common goal, which is saving the panda, anything is possible.'

But for now, Xiao Qi Ji – which means 'little miracle' – is getting ready to celebrate his first birthday in front of a huge crowd of well-wishers, with a special cake made out of sweet potato, his favourite food.

'Xiao Qi Ji is very important to us,' says Thompson. 'He really represents the success of our panda programme, which has been a huge part of my life. I adore these pandas – they are like family.'

Idris Elba helps youngsters transform their lives through boxing

NEW FACTUAL

Idris Elba's Fight School

Easter Sunday, 9pm, BBC2 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

When Idris Elba was growing up in London, he could have fallen into a life of crime – but the Luther star credits boxing with keeping him on the straight and narrow.

'As a young black man growing up in the inner city, life wasn't always easy,' says Elba. 'I was at a crossroads. My local community centre helped me find my way and become the man I am by teaching me to box. What I gained there has stuck with me and I still use the life skills that boxing taught me.'

Now, the actor, 49, is drawing on that experience to give eight youngsters from disadvantaged backgrounds the chance to transform their lives.

In the series, young men and women from around the UK spend five months training with former champion Rachel Bower and coach Greg White – before taking on top amateurs from the British Army at a London boxing venue.

'I got the idea for the series when I was filming a movie in South Africa,' explains Elba. 'We went to the townships and there was a boxing gym. These guys who set up the fight school lowered the crime rate and got kids out of trouble. That really stuck with me.'

NEW BEGINNINGS

One of the youngsters desperate to grab his chance with both hands is 26-year-old Zeb, who's faced many difficulties growing up in London.

'My dad died when I was nine years old and I still miss him a lot,' he explains. 'After that, my mum didn't always have enough money for food and rent.'

Another budding boxer hoping to make a new start is 30-year-old Chanika, who fell seriously ill with COVID-19 just before filming was supposed to begin.

'I was in intensive care for a while,' she reveals. 'At one point the doctors had a serious conversation with my mum, which was very scary.

'However, I was determined not to go down without a fight and ever since, I have been pushing myself to recover, because I know this is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.'

CRIME DRAMA

Friday, 9.20am & 8pm, Sky Premiere ★★★

This brooding drama concerns an Oklahoma construction worker, Bill (Matt Damon), who's determined to prise his daughter, Allison (Abigail Breslin), from the Marseille prison where she has spent the last five years for ostensibly killing her girlfriend (in a plot that's clearly inspired by the real-life case of Amanda Knox).

Bill isn't rich, has no connections and can't speak French. But he is tenacious, dogged and good with his fists, attributes that persuade actor Virginie (Camille Cottin) to take up his cause and help him track down a man who might hold the key to his daughter's liberty.

Director Tom McCarthy skilfully cranks up the tension as Baker entangles both Virginie and her own daughter Maya (a scene-stealing Lilou Siauvaud) in his Taken-esque quest, which also throws in Trumpian politics.

A gigantic coincidence puts the film firmly in thriller territory, but also stretches the plot's credibility to breaking point. However, Damon's sturdy presence always holds the film together. 2021, 15, 139MIN

ANIMATION

PAW Patrol: The Movie

Saturday, 10.05am & 4.25pm, Sky Premiere ★★★

The animated hit show for the under-six crowd is polished up with some much improved CGI, with young boy Ryder (voiced by Will Brisbin) taking his rescue team of talking puppies to Adventure City, where Mayor Humdinger (Ron Pardo) is causing havoc. Sweet, tame and safe for even the youngest, it emphasises teamwork and friendship above all else, even if you can't help but feel a lot of this is set up to shift the latest toy line. A strange host of star cameo voices also pop up, including Tyler Perry, Kim Kardashian, Jimmy Kimmel and Dax Shepard, which is stranger because this really is not aimed at adults in any way. The kids will eat it up, though. 2021, U, 86MIN

THRILLER

All the Old Knives

On all week, On demand, Amazon Prime Video ★★★

This tangled tale of two CIA operatives – and ex-lovers – is a satisfying old-school thriller. Chris Pine plays a seasoned spook who arrives at a plush restaurant for dinner with former colleague/paramour Thandiwe Newton. Their conversation switches to the fallout from an operation in Vienna years earlier when a rescue mission on a hijacked plane went disastrously awry. As the flashbacks pile up, and Pine criss-crosses the globe, it transpires an agent was leaking info… Directed by Janus Metz Pedersen from the novel by Olen Steinhauer, who also wrote the screenplay, this is classy, if a little dry. But the stars and excellent support from Laurence Fishburne and Jonathan Pryce ensure this tale of betrayal and murky morality entertains. 2022, 15, 101 MIN

DRAMA

No Man of God

From Easter Sunday, On demand, Netflix ★★★★

The real-life meetings between FBI criminal profiler Bill Hagmaier (Elijah Wood) and serial killer Ted Bundy (Luke Kirby) are re-created in this tight, intense drama. The actors deliver supremely convincing performances as Hagmaier tries to understand what makes someone such as Bundy tick. The trouble is, the murderer is about to be executed but has yet to admit to his heinous crimes. Director Amber Sealey is astute in rarely leaving the prison setting and never showing the horror of Bundy's crimes, making him in no way alluring but simply a selfish narcissist. 2021, 15, 100MIN

A trawler sets sail from the West of Ireland on a make-or-break fishing trip for debt-strapped husband-and-wife skippers Gerard (Dougray Scott) and Freya (Connie Nielsen), along with marine biology student Siobhán (Hermione Corfield) and their superstitious crew. Straying into an exclusion zone in pursuit of a profitable shoal of fish, the boat becomes stuck fast in a sticky-green goo and the crew starts to fall victim to a strange malaise... Studding the action with laconic dialogue, director Neasa Hardiman creates a tense, effectively claustrophobic mood. 2019, 15, 90MIN

Director Andrea Arnold's documentary about a dairy cow, Luma, was filmed over four years to capture her stuck-in-a-loop round of birthing and giving milk, apart from the occasional exhilarating gambol in a meadow. Cow eschews narration, instead showing viewers the grinding repetition of the life of a sentient beast that serves humans. At times Luma looks directly into the lens, and we wonder what she is thinking and feeling. As for us, thoughts will likely turn to issues such as motherhood, women's bodies, fertility, and more. Chelsea v Crystal Palace

Sunday, kick-off 4.30pm, ITV

Chelsea have already beaten their London rivals twice in the league this season. It's the Blues' fifth FA Cup semi-final in six seasons, with goals from Romelu Lukaku and Hakim Ziyech enough to see off Middlesbrough in the quarter-final. The Eagles booked their first appearance in the last four since 2016 with a 4-0 win over Everton. On loan from Chelsea, Conor Gallagher is ineligible to face his parent club, but Palace still have an abundance of goal threats in Wilfried Zaha, Eberechi Eze and Michael Olise. 'Going to Wembley is what the fans have wanted,' says coach Patrick Vieira. 'It is an exciting period for us.'

HAMPDEN HISTORY

Hibernian's Elias Melkersen (front)

History has been made in the semi-finals of the Scottish Cup, with the four major Glasgow and Edinburgh clubs all making it through to the last four for the first time.

Edinburgh rivals Hearts and Hibernian meet at Hampden Park on Saturday (BBC1 Scotland, BBC iPlayer & Premier Sports 1, k-o 12.15pm). Hibs were runners-up last year, when they lost to St Johnstone, and will be looking to Elias Melkersen for more goals after the Norway teenager's double in the quarter-finals.

On Sunday, Hampden also hosts the clash between title rivals Celtic and Rangers (Premier Sports 1, kick-off 2pm).

DESTINATION WEMBLEY

Fran Kirby of Chelsea

The BBC is screening both Women's FA Cup semi-finals, with West Ham playing Manchester City in Dagenham on Saturday (BBC1 (not Scot), kick-off 12.15pm), and Arsenal facing Chelsea on Sunday at Borehamwood (BBC2, kick-off 12.30pm). The match is a repeat of last year's final, when the Blues triumphed 3-0 with goals from Fran Kirby and Sam Kerr to win a treble.

Mark Selby

LIVE SNOOKER

World Championship

From Saturday, BBC1, BBC2, BBC4 & Eurosport 1

Reigning champion Mark Selby begins the defence of his crown at the Crucible this week, having claimed his fourth world title in 2021 thanks to victory over Shaun Murphy in the final. The 38-year-old has spoken openly about his ongoing struggle with depression in recent weeks. 'I still love the game and still want to play,' he has said. 'If I can still compete without feeling it's too much mentally, then I will carry on. But I'm taking it one match at a time.' Selby arrives at the Crucible as the top seed.

LIVE RUGBY UNION

Harlequins v Montpellier

Saturday, kick-off 12.30pm, C4 & BT Sport 2

Quins winger Cadan Murley has his sights on a place in the quarter-finals of the European Champions Cup as the English side host Montpellier in the second leg of their last-16 tie. Also on Saturday, Ulster will be trying to dump holders Toulouse out of the tournament when they meet at Kingspan Stadium (BT Sport 2, kick-off 8pm). It's the first time that ties are being played over two legs, meaning extra time if there are equal aggregate scores.

Tarran Mackenzie

LIVE MOTORCYCLING

British Superbikes

Saturday & Sunday, Eurosport 2

As the season begins with three races at Silverstone over the weekend, defending champion Tarran Mackenzie will be hoping to have fully recovered from a pre-season injury. The McAMS Yamaha rider emulated his triple-title-winning father Niall Mackenzie by claiming the 2021 title, but will face a stern challenge from Tom Sykes and Leon Haslam who have switched from World Superbikes. 'I don't feel any added pressure,' says Mackenzie. 'Having Leon and Tom there just makes it more exciting.'

Paris-Roubaix

Saturday & Sunday, Eurosport 1

Britain's Lizzie Deignan won the first women's race over the famous cobblestones last year, but will miss Saturday's edition after announcing she was pregnant with her second child. Dubbed the Hell of the North, the 160-mile men's race on Sunday is also likely to see a new champion – the reigning title holder, Italy's Sonny Colbrelli, is in recovery after he collapsed at the Volta a Catalunya in March.

FIRST LOOK

Pistol

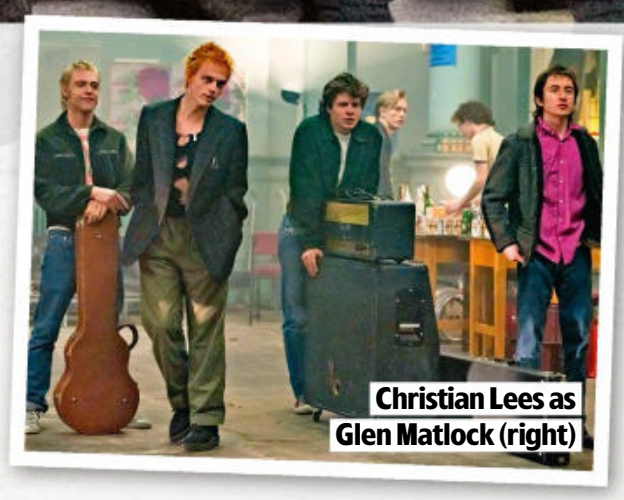
Danny Boyle directs an explosive drama about the Sex Pistols

The Sex Pistols take centre stage in this sneak peek at Disney+'s new drama Pistol, airing from Tuesday 31 May.

The six-part series, based on guitarist Steve Jones' memoir Lonely Boy: Tales from a Sex Pistol, is directed by Oscar-winner Danny Boyle and centres on Jones, played by Toby Wallace, as he becomes a founding member of the punk group who turned the music world upside down.

NEW WAVE

It follows the angry, young men over three years in the 1970s as they cut a swathe through the industry and face professional and personal challenges.



Christian Lees as Glen Matlock (right)

Anson Boon plays lead singer John Lydon, while Jacob Slater is drummer Paul Cook and Christian Lees is bassist Glen Matlock, who is replaced by the irrepressible Sid Vicious, played by Louis Partridge.

Thomas Brodie-Sangster is the Pistols' manager Malcolm McLaren who, with fashion designer Vivienne Westwood (Talulah Riley), owned London's SEX boutique, which helped launch punk style and employed model Jordan, played by Maisie Williams. Sydney Chandler plays The Pretenders' Chrissie Hynde and Emma Appleton is Vicious' lover Nancy Spungen.

'This is the moment that British society and culture changed forever,' says Boyle. 'It is the detonation point for British street culture where young people vented their fury and their fashion and everyone had to watch and listen and everyone feared or followed them.'

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

Sir Tony Robinson

He will host More4's four-part history series Museum of Us, which will see local people in Birmingham, Aberystwyth, Norwich and Bristol work together to uncover the history of their own street.

The Rolling Stones

To mark the group's 60th anniversary, BBC2's four-parter My Life as a Rolling Stone, airing this summer, will profile each of the band's members – Sir Mick Jagger, Keith Richards, Ronnie Wood and the late Charlie Watts.

Michaela Strachan

Channel 5's three-part documentary Ice Age: A Frozen World will see her join Steve Backshall and Chris Jackson to uncover the secrets of giant beasts including mammoths, as well as Neanderthals and Homo sapiens.

Coming Back

Sky Comedy's Sex and the City spin-off And Just Like That... will return for a second series as Miranda, Carrie and Charlotte carry on negotiating life. 'I am delighted to tell more stories,' says showrunner Michael Patrick King.
